

THE NEW SCHOOL AT NEW GREEN CITY CLASS SCHEDULE

Student and faculty presentations on issues of food, sustainable design, and public policy

11:00 A.M.

FoodWorks and PlaNYC: Creating a Sustainable Urban Food System

Nevin Cohen, Assistant Professor of Environmental Studies

An overview of New York City food policy with a focus on recent initiatives.

12:30 P.M.

Food Studies in the City: Exploring Systems and Choices

Fabio Parasecoli, Associate Professor of Food Studies

The New School Food Studies program teaches people about food systems and the cultural and political factors that determine what gets to our tables.

1:00 P.M.

Empowerhouse

The New School Solar Decathlon Team

Team members discuss their prize-winning entry in the 2011 U.S. Department of Energy's Solar Decathlon competition, which will become a real house in the Deanwood neighborhood in Washington, DC.

2:00 P.M.

Deanwood Learning Garden

Katie Wauchope, graduate student in Environmental Policy and Sustainability Management

This community public space in Washington, DC is designed to be a venue for interactive environmental education.

3:00 P.M.

La Finca del Sur

Annie Moss, graduate student in Environmental Policy and Sustainability Management

The first urban farm in the South Bronx is run by women; it's a bold response to the special difficulties faced by women of color in our inner cities who want to provide healthy food for their families.

3:30 P.M.

Digging into the Farm Bill

Benjamin Solotaire, student in Food Studies

The primary agricultural and food policy tool of the U.S. government is the hugely expensive and controversial Farm Bill.

For more information about any of these presentations and projects, please contact environmentalstudies@newschool.edu.

THE NEW SCHOOL

www.newschool.edu