

GrowNYC Wholesale Producers

Alewife Farms - Kingston, NY

Alewife Farm is a small farm located in Kingston, NY that grows a wide range of vegetables including microgreens, sweet potatoes, carrots, radishes, and more. Tyler Dennis, owner and operator of Alewife Farm, started growing on just 3 acres in 2014; as of 2020 the farm has come to encompass 52 acres of land, 40 of which are dedicated to annual vegetable production. In addition to selling wholesale to GrowNYC and restaurants in New York City, Alewife also sells directly to customers at four Greenmarkets, one of which is the Union Square Greenmarket.

Alderman Farms - Boynton Beach, FL

Alderman Farms has been growing both organic and conventional produce in Florida for more than 30 years. The 300-acre organic farm is located in Loxahatchee, with other farms spreading from Delray to Boynton beaches. We are proud to note that Alderman is also member of the Coalition of Immokalee Workers' Fair Food Program, which organizes on behalf of all Florida farmworkers.

Bittner-Singer Orchards – Appleton, NY

Bittner-Singer Orchards, formerly Singer Farms, is a family farm established in 1915. Now owned by the Bittner and Singer families, the orchards are located along the shores of Lake Ontario, near Niagara Falls, NY. The fruits grown on the farm are influenced by the climate and soil located along the lakeshore of northern New York state.

Brightwaters Farms – New York

Brightwaters Farms is a very diverse farm operation with three facilities located on Long Island and Upstate New York. Long standing member and supporter of New York & Long Island Farm Bureau. In business since the late 1600's. Supporter of community Non Profit Groups and Organizations. Local Chamber of Commerce Member. From vegetables to hay, flowers to pumpkins and perennials to trees, Brightwaters Farms continues to grow. Please browse our website for further information.

Cassaday Farms – Monroeville, NJ

George Cassaday is the fourth generation to farm his great-great grandfather's land. Cassaday Farms grows everything from broccoli to strawberries, melons, sweet corn and more. Greenmarket Co. is excited to be expanding into New Jersey to offer early-season fruits and veggies!

Cherry Lane Farms – Bridgeton, NJ

Cherry Lane Farms is a family owned and operated farm located three hours south of New York City in the historically fertile grounds of South Jersey. Lew & Sue, siblings and owners of the farm, grow over 30 types of fruits and vegetables. Cherry Lane Farms has been a mainstay vendor at the Union Square Greenmarket for a number of years; they are especially renowned for their strawberries and heirloom tomatoes.

Cottle Farms – Faison, NC

Cottle Farms is owned and operated by 4th generation farmer Ron Cottle, who grew up on the farm in North Carolina. Cottle Farms is known for growing a cornucopia of fruits including Blackberries, Strawberries, Cantaloupe, Muscadines, and the ever-popular Blueberries. Since taking the reins of management from his father Ned, Ron has diversified the Farm's operations to also include the production of night shade vegetables, fall squash varieties, and serving as a regional Strawberry nursery to other farms all along the East Coast.

Dagele Brothers Produce – Florida, NY

Dagele Brothers Produce farms on 400 acres in the Black Dirt region located in southern Orange County, NY. The region gets its name from the extremely dark and fertile soil there that was left over from a glacial lake bottom. Dagele Brothers is especially known for their delicious onions and lettuces.

Davenport Farms – Stone Ridge, NY

The Davenport family has been farming the land at Davenport Farms since 1840! A member of the family still works in every phase of production from harvesting to managing the roadside stand. Davenport is especially known for its delicious sweet corn, but also wholesales broccoli, tomatoes, cantaloupe, peppers, and more!

De Meyer Farm – Hilton, NY

De Meyer Farm specializes in growing specialty winter squashes including Sweet Meat and Mini Blue Hubbard. All varieties are carefully chosen and grown for the best flavor, texture and storage characteristics. Honeybees are used for pollination which increases uniformity of the fruits and squash is minimally sprayed.

Dixie Belle Peaches – Spring Ridge, SC

Dixie Belle is a multi-generation farm currently operated by Jimmy Forrest (Father), Matt Forrest (Son and President of the South Carolina Peach Council), Clark Forrest (Son). During the harvest season, they employ up to 200 people, creating much-needed jobs in the community. They're also very progressive in terms of integrated pest management and overall farming practices, and utilize methods such as pheromone mating disruption to reduce need for insecticides, GPS-guided machinery for planting, and computerized micro-jet irrigation system that ensures they aren't irrigating more than they need to.

Eden Valley Growers – Eden, N.Y.

Eden Valley Growers, established in 1956, is a vegetable-growing cooperative that recently celebrated its 60th anniversary. Most of the members are fifth-, sixth- and seventh-generation farms and include Henry W. Agle & Sons, Ronald Draudt & Sons, Kenneth Henry & Sons, MCR Farm, Amos Zittel & Sons, Henry's Gardens, W.D. Henry & Sons, and Vacco Farms. These farms and distribution facility are located approximately 20 miles south of Buffalo.

Emmi Farm - Baldwinsville, NY

A true family farm enterprise, Emmi Farm is neighbors with another Fresh Food Box favorite: Reeves! The family farms about 300 acres, and supplies not only food to our local wholesale food hub, but also their own farm stands, as well as allowing pick-your-own visiting for strawberries and apples.

Farmer Ground Flour – Trumansburg, NY

100% certified organic grain mill located in Trumansburg, NY. At Farmer Ground Flour they select their grains for flavor and performance, and every year plant trial plots of heirloom wheat, such as "Warthog" and "Glen." They are also working with NOFA and the Northeast Organic Wheat Project to identify and promote superior heritage wheat varieties, and to develop relationships among farmers, bakers, and millers.

Fishkill Farms - Hopewell Junction, NY

They've got lots of tasty apples on offer including Cortland, Empire, Golden Delicious, Macoun, and Mutsu!

Glossy Fruit Farm – Hammonton, NJ

Glossy Fruit Farm is a multi-generational family owned farm, and a member of a Blueberry Farmers' Cooperative located in Hammonton, NJ. Glossy Fruit Farm uses sustainability practices, including drip irrigation, solar energy, and recyclable packaging, to ensure the future of their farm for generations to come. They hand-pick their blueberries to ensure optimum color, size, and quality.

Growtopia (Formerly Sorbello Farms) – Woolwich Township, NJ

Sorbello Farms is a 3rd generation farm in Southern New Jersey. Owner Tom Sorbello was born and raised on the farm and has been farming for nearly his entire life. Kris, Tom's nephew, recently left his job as a middle school PE teacher to help oversee management of the farm and is enjoying spending his days outside with his dedicated farm crew. Greenmarket Co. sources their perfect asparagus and beautiful cantaloupes, among other things.

Grandpa Farm (Rancho del Abuelito) – Chester, NY

Grandpa Farm is a Latinx immigrant-owned family farm located in Chester, NY. Grandpa farm specializes in greens, root crop vegetables, and specialty Mexican herbs. In their own words, "we have dedicated ourselves to working the land in Chester since the day we emigrated from Puebla, Mexico 15 years ago. In the beginning we worked as farm laborers, while little by little we built our dream of having our own farm. 15 years ago it was a very distant dream, not only because of the amount of money needed, but because we had no idea how to start building the foundations of that dream. In 2019 we carried out our dream, we started our farm under the direction of our grandfather - that's why we called ourselves the Rancho del Abuelito, or Grandpa Farm. Our mission at Grandpa Farm: to exercise our passion to grow fresh produce for our community, and to operate our own business as an engine for our family to get ahead, allowing us to spend more time with our children."

Handsome Brook Farm – Various locations throughout New York

Handsome Brook Farm is a collaboration of small, mostly Amish - owned farms in upstate New York. Their eggs are produced by pasture-raised hens that are provided acres of pasture to forage, roam, and scratch in! The Cornucopia Institute gave them a 5 Egg Star (Exemplary) Rating based on several criteria including outdoor access and management, laying hen lifespan, and the nutritional quality of their feed.

Heilig Orchards - Mullicans NJ

Heilig Orchards has proudly been serving New Jersey and the surrounding area for 13 years. Look out for their peaches in your food box!

Hoolie Flats - East Calais, VT

Hoolie flats is an organic farm started and operated by Mike Betit. After running Tamarack Hollow Farm (a Greenmarket veteran and favorite) for 17 years, Mike decided to expand his business. He bought the long-time farmland, and named it 'Hoolie Flats' for his four kids who he refers to as his "hooligans".

Holly Creek Farms - Holly Creek Farms, Branchville SC

Holly Creek Farms was started by Danny McAlhaney. A former cotton and peanut farmer, Danny decided to transition to organic farming a few years ago and now has 100 acres of mixed-vegetable production. Holly Creek Farms is known for their sweet potatoes and kale.

The Hudson Valley Farm Hub, Hurley, NY

The Hudson Valley Farm Hub is a non-profit center for resilient agriculture located on 1,255 acres of prime farmland in Hurley, NY. They provide professional farmer training, host and support agricultural research, demonstrate new farm technologies, and serve as an educational resource for advances in food and farming.

J. Gardiner Farms, Swedesboro, NJ

J. Gardiner Farms is a 500 acre farm in South Jersey that specializes in assorted vegetables and melons. At only 19, Josh Gardiner, owner and operator of J. Gardiner Farms LLC., is among the youngest of the farmers that we partner with. He has been farming from a young age and is keen to learn from the older generation of South Jersey farmers. He carries on the regional tradition of growing asparagus in the low-lying sandy soil that makes up much of Southern Jersey, and which is ideal for growing asparagus.

Jersey Farm Produce – Milford, NJ

Hector Perez farms 97 acres and has been in the Greenmarket farmers market program for over 10 years. Hector studied agronomy in college his native country of Mexico, and went on to achieve his dream of starting his own farm in 2009 – first with vegetables and flowers, and more recently expanding his farm to include a fruit orchard. Hector's approach minimizes the use of synthetic inputs, and he is fond of developing innovative approaches to season extension, in particular through greenhouse techniques.

Juniper Hill Farm – Wadhams, NY

Juniper Hill Farm is a small certified organic farm nestled between the Adirondack Mountains and Lake Champlain in New York State. The farm has grown its operation from three acres in 2007, to over one hundred acres in cultivation in 2020. Juniper Hill Farm sells at five farmers markets within the region, as well as selling wholesale and directly to restaurants; they continuously strive to add more greenhouses with the goal of bringing to market an earlier and higher quality variety of products to markets in the Northeast.

The Kitchen Garden – Sunderland, MA

Kitchen Garden Farm is located in the heart of the Pioneer Valley, the prime agricultural region of Western Massachusetts. Caroline and Tim started the farm in 2006 on 1 acre of rented land, and have now expanded the farm to 50 acres! All of the new land they have brought into cultivation had previously been farmed by conventional growers in the area. Caroline and Tim are committed to growing healthy soils by cultivating a wide range of biodiverse crops, improving crop rotation and cover cropping.

Larchmont Orchards – Elmer, NJ

Larchmont Farms is a 1,000-acre fruit orchard that grows not only peaches, but nectarines, plums, cherries and apples. Should you ever be in New Jersey, stop by their farmstand!

L'Hommedieu Farms

Paul L'Hommedieu's family has been farming for over 100 years. A few years ago, the family farm was lost, but Paul has managed to secure 8 acre and has continued to grow his family's specialties: cauliflower, Brussels sprouts, squash and pumpkins. We love his beautifully cared, and delicious, produce.

LynOaken Orchards – Medina, NY

The apple growing tradition of the Oakes family dates back to 1919 when their grandfather purchased land in rural Orleans County in Western New York State to grow the best apples possible. As stewards of the environment, LynOaken Orchards provides unwaxed, hand-packed apples and flash-pasteurized orchard fresh cider made from their own hand-picked fruit.

Marolda Farm – Vineland, NJ

Marolda Farm is owned and operated by husband and wife team Richard and Sherry Marolda. Their farm spans 415 acres (350 acres of conventional produce and 65 acres of Certified Organic) and they grow a diverse mix of greens, root veggies, herbs, nightshades, and even strawberries. Their son, Richard Jr. co-runs the farm and oversees their Certified Organic program. The Maroldas have a hand in all aspects of the farm - from seeding to watering to harvesting and beyond - and they put a lot of love into each case of produce.

Maine Grains – Skowhegan, ME

Maine Grains produces a variety of stone- milled products using locally grown and sourced grains. Through a unique stone-milling process, they are able to preserve nutritional content and improve the performance of flour for natural fermentation baking. All of their products are milled to order. Products are grown without synthetic pesticides.

Martens Organic Farm – Penn Yan, NY

Martens Organic Farm is a family - owned multi-generational farm that specializes in grains and beans. In 1992 Klaas & Mary-Howell Martens began to transition their then 600 acre farm to organic growing practices looking for a healthier environment for their kids to grow up in and a more economically sustainable future for the farm. The farm, now operated by their son and daughter-in-law Peter & Hanna Martens, encompasses over 1,400 acres and currently produces grains products including corn, rye, einkorn, black, and pinto beans.

Mead Orchards – Tivoli, NY

Mead Orchards is a family - owned fruit orchard and vegetable farm, located in the beautiful Hudson Valley of New York! The Mead family has been farming apples, peaches, plums, blueberries and a variety of summer vegetables since 1916.

Minkus Family Farm- New Hampton, NY

Minkus farm is run by and Husband and Wife team, along with their two sons and son-in-law, making it a true family farm. They're located in the black dirt region of Orange County, NY, which is known for its superior onions due to the soil's high sulfur content. Minkus grows and distributes onions, potatoes, and squash year-round up and down the east coast.

Migliorelli Farm – Tivoli, NY

Migliorelli Farm is a family-run fruit and vegetable farm located in Northern Dutchess County in the Hudson Valley Region of New York. Originating in the Bronx in 1933 when Angelo Migliorelli first brought the broccoli raab seeds when he immigrated to New York from the Lazio region of Italy. Migliorelli and his son, Rocco peddled their vegetables by horse and cart up and down the Bronx, sun up to sun down. Eventually Co-Op City was to be built therefore pushing the last of the farmers out of the Bronx. Farming was Rocco's passion so he brought his family to the Hudson Valley. Now in its 3rd generation, Migliorelli Farm is growing over 130 different varieties of fruits and vegetables, including the same strain of broccoli raab. In 1998, Ken Migliorelli sold all developing rights of his farm to be protected through a Scenic Hudson conservation easement to remain farmland forever and provide scenic beauty and wholesome food to our local community and the greenmarkets of NYC.

Miracle Springs Farm- Ancram, NY

Located in the Hudson Valley, the Miracle Springs Farm crew is just getting its start on this 220 acre farm. They grow biodynamic veggies, keep goats, cows, and bees and produce value added products such as goat cheese and baked goods.

Mosher Farms – Bouckville, NY

Mosher Farms is a four-generation farm that was founded in 1920 by George and Katie Mosher. It began as a dairy farm, but when the price of milk began to decline, George (with persuasion from others) began to plant peas. Through the process of trial and error, the family added more fruits and vegetables to the business. "Our goal is to provide people with the freshest fruits and vegetables possible. We are looking to provide local communities with a bit of hometown hospitality and hope to serve those communities in the best way possible."

Morgiewicz Produce – Goshen, NY

Morgiewicz Produce is a fourth generation farm on the outskirts of Goshen, NY. Currently managed by brothers Dan, Joe, David, and their cousin Vince, the newest generation in this farm family Joe Jr., son of Joe Morgewicz, has diversified their harvest cycles by growing hydroponic lettuce during the winter.

Muzzarelli Farms – Vineland, NJ

The original family owned business was started in 1937 and has expanded from 20 to 300 acres in its nearly 80 year history. Though Charlie continues to grow sweet potatoes and pickles as his grandfather did, he is quick to say that he doesn't take "special pride" in these two crops. "I take pride in all my crops." These crops include endive, escarole, romaine, cabbage, beets, leeks, eggplant, plum, grape, and tomatoes, and others.

Myers Produce- Sunderland, MA

Myers Produce has been in operation since 2013. As a regional distributor based in Northern Vermont, they buy fruit and vegetables from small, primarily organic farms in Vermont, Massachusetts, and Maine, and sell to wholesale customers in New York City and the Boston area. Everything that they offer to their customers has been produced in the Northeast. This week, Food Box has sourced cantaloupes through Myers, grown by Riverland Farm in Sunderland, MA.

Northstar Farms- Franklin, NY

Northstar Blueberries are grown on seventy-four acres of pristine fields overlooking the village of Franklin, New York. For generations prior to planting of our fields in May 2014, the land was an organic dairy pasture, leaving the clay loam soil exceptionally rich in organic matter and nutrients our blueberry bushes need to thrive and produce delicious fruits. Cold winters and temperate summers with ample sunlight make our location, also known to locals as the "Blueberry Hill", ideal to grow sweeter and more flavorful blueberries. And, we like to think, the beauty of the Western Catskills makes its way into every "Northstar" we harvest.

New Sprout Organic Farms – North Carolina

New Sprout Organic Farms is a grower cooperative in North Carolina. In operation since 2011, New Sprout is committed to bringing their customers the highest quality organic produce available. With farm partners in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Tennessee they are committed to bridging the gap between mid-sized growers in the Southeast and customers who value responsibly and sustainably grown products. On top of being organic certified, New Sprout focuses on changing the dynamic of land use in the Southeast by converting old tobacco farms into sustainable veggie farms.

North Country Farms – Watertown, NY

Bordered by the Adirondack Mountains and Lake Ontario, North Country Farms mills uses granite stones to produce flours from locally-grown grains.

Pastore Orchards – Elm, NJ

A family owned and operated farm, Pastore Orchards has been farming for more than 100 years. Pastore Orchards began as a peach farm, but today they grow a variety of fruits and vegetables with the majority of the 300 acres of farmland dedicated to blueberries, sweet potatoes, sweet corn and other vegetable crops. Their produce is grown and picked fresh everyday for a roadside market and commercially sold to local farm markets and stores throughout the tri-state area.

Pete's Greens (Craftsbury, Vermont)

At Pete's Greens we grow a wide range of organic produce and raise pastured meats. Our selection of organic produce includes all your standards as well as interesting and unique specialty vegetables with an emphasis on baby greens, heirloom tomatoes, and root crops. Soil fertility is critical to grow healthy organic plants, which result in vegetables with superior taste and quality. We incorporate the most current and proven sustainable systems for cover cropping and composting to naturally rejuvenate the land and provide a healthy environment for plants to grow. Our pastured animals contribute to the diversity of products we offer, but equally important, they contribute to the fertility of our fields by adding back important nutrients and aerating the soil through their scratching, pecking, rooting and grazing.

Platte Creek Maple Farm – Saugerties, NY

Platte Creek Maple Farm is located in Saugerties, NY, where they sustainably produce 100% pure maple syrup! Their detailed forest management plan maintains biodiversity, productivity and regeneration capacity through practices including minimal tapping and promoting tree growth without the use of fertilizers. Platte Creek also follows guidelines for organic maple production as outlined by NOFA.

Primordia Mushroom Farm - Lenhartsville, Pennsylvania

Founded in 2012, Primordia Mushroom Farm is a small family owned and operated mushroom farm that specializes in gourmet mushroom varieties. They use organic methods: absolutely no pesticides, fungicides, or chemical fertilizers, and grow year round, shifting their mushroom varieties to suit the season.

Pristine Acres Farm - Laurens, NY

Founded in 2017, Pristine Acres is a small Certified Organic farm owned and operated by Amish farmer Mervin Miller; this family-owned farm on the outskirts of Oneonta, NY specializes in growing local watermelon, broccoli, cucumbers, and cauliflower, among other things. Mervin belongs to the Morris Amish community, originally from La Grange County Indiana, and brings 30+ years of experience farming certified organic produce in North America.

Prospect Hill Orchards – Milton, NY

Prospect Hill Orchards has been in the Clarke family for over 200 years! Located in Milton, NY Prospect Hill Orchards is covered in rich loam soil - perfect for growing apples, cherries, peaches, and pears!

Radicle Farms – Utica, NY

Radicle Farm Company's mission is to reshape the process by which produce is harvested and sold by offering local, all-natural greens to the NYC region. By growing hydroponically in greenhouses in New York and New Jersey, Radicle is able to bring us regionally grown greens and herbs all year long!

Reeves Farm – Baldwinsville, NY

Reeves Farms is dedicated to producing fresh, nutritious berries and vegetables using sustainable farming practices and is a proud member of the state's "Pride of New York" program. The Reeves family has been growing vegetables for more than a century in New York's Finger Lakes region.

Regional Access – Ithaca, NY

Started in 1989, Regional Access is a multi-faceted local food distribution and logistics company servicing nearly all of NY State and points beyond. Their mission is to make local and sustainable food accessible to all in our area, and work towards this goal by providing farmers with a more streamlined way to get their food to customers.

Remembrance Farm – Trumansburg, NY

Remembrance Farm is a 100-acre Certified Organic and Biodynamic farm in the Finger Lakes Region run by husband and wife Emily and Nathaniel Thompson. Their attention to detail ensures a high quality and consistent product. They specialize in growing salad greens and root vegetables.

Row by Row Farm—Hurley NY

Row by Row Farm has a commitment to sustainable agriculture in accordance with sound ecological and economic principles. We build and maintain healthy soils by applying farming practices that include rotating crops annually, using compost, mineral based fertilizer, naturally occurring soil amendments and cover crops. We serve the health of our soil, customers and nature by rejecting the use of synthetic insecticides, herbicides, fungicides, fertilizers and genetically modified seeds and feed.

R&R Produce – Goshen, NY

Started their farm through GrowNYC's FarmROOTS program which gives new farmers the business and financial tools they need to get their farms up and running. Operated by husband and wife team Rogelio and Yesenia Bautista, located in Goshen, NY (black dirt region), farming about 30 acres which they cultivate: grows greens, beets, garlic, peppers, and tomatoes.

Robert M. Olive Orchard – Hammonton, NJ

The Robert M. Olive Orchard is very unique in our set of farms. The owner, Robert, only farms three acres of land, only grows one product, and only has one customer- us! He takes pride in his hands-on approach to growing over 30,000 lbs of blackberries in Hammonton- an area renowned for high quality berries.

Sarah Nicolosi and Sons – Swedesboro, NJ

Freddy Nicolosi has been farming his 500acre farm in Southern New Jersey for over 5 decades. He grows high quality, retail ready and delicious asparagus, tomatoes, peppers, eggplants, squashes and more.

Satur Farms – Cutchogue, NY and Palm City, FL (Dec - March)

Satur Farms is based on the North Fork of Long Island where they farm from April to November before heading down to Palm City, Florida to farm during the winter months. Known for their specialty salad greens, heirloom tomatoes, root vegetables and herbs, Satur is committed to sustainable farming, not only in relation to their fields and the safe production of their vegetables, but also ensuring their employees receive livable wages.

Stick and Stone Farm – Ithaca, NY

Stick and Stone Farm started on a few acres of rented land in Newfield, NY. It is now 72 acres of land in the Town of Ulysses, between Jacksonville and Ithaca on route 96. We raise 25 acres of certified organic vegetables, flowers and free range chicken eggs.

Subarashii Kudamono – Coopersburg, PA

Subarashii Kudamono is a premium grower of gourmet Asian Pears - select varieties grown in Berks and Lehigh Counties are patented so they are exclusive to our orchards and not found anywhere else in the world. American inventor and businessman, Joel Spira, was enchanted by the incomparable flavor of Asian pears while on a business trip to Japan in 1973. Upon return to the US, he endeavored to grow his own Asian pears at home.

Sun Valley Orchards – Swedesboro, NJ

Founded in the early 1970's, Sun Valley Orchards is a fruit and vegetable grower, packer, and shipper in New Jersey. This 1,200 acre farm is owned and operated by the Marino family, four generations of farmers who are personally involved in every aspect of the farm-from maintaining the quality of the produce in the fields, to making sure it's hand harvested, packed with care and delivered on time in their own refrigerated trucks to assure just-picked freshness. Produce consistency, trust and reliability are the cornerstone of Sun Valley Orchards' success. Sun Valley Orchards can grow what the retailer needs, offer longer shelf life, hold price ads and be trusted to deliver on time. And when farming runs in your blood for almost 100 years, as it has the Marino family, customers can trust they're getting the best quality produce available.

S&SO – Goshen, NY

One of Greenmarket's founding farmers in 1976! S&SO is located in the Black Dirt region of Orange County. This farm uses I.P.M. (Integrated Pest Management) and crop rotation practices to produce outstanding roots crops, spring onions, scallions, herbs, and leafy greens. Their carrots are the best!

Toigo Orchards – Shippensburg, PA

Located in Shippensburg, PA, Toigo grows a variety of fruit including strawberries, peaches, plums, melons and apples. Their fruit is so popular that they ship as far as northern Canada and as south as southern Virginia! Check them out at one of the many Greenmarkets they attend throughout the city.

Trapani Farms—Milton, NY

Trapani Farms follows a long tradition of farming in the Lattintown area of Milton, New York. The first Benjamin Trapani, a Sicilian immigrant, purchased farmland in the 1920's and began to grow fruit and vegetables. Since Benjamin, the farm has been passed down through three generations. Truly a family farm, everyone pitches in to help when needed. The Trapani family takes pride in the quality and variety of produce that they grow.

Tremblay Apiaries – Van Etten, NY

Alan Tremblay has made caring for bees and their environment his life work. Located in the Fingerlakes region of upstate New York, Tremblay Apiaries sustainable produces and bottles honey that it sells direct to consumer at Greenmarkets all over NYC.

Trinity Farms – Clintondale, NY

David & Veronica Haughton are co-owner/operators of Trinity Farms in Clintondale, New York. David grew up on a fourteen acre farm in the St. Elizabeth parish of Jamaica, and immigrated to New York as an apple picker in 1988. In 1997, David & Veronica purchased a 30 acre farm in Clintondale, NY, and worked tirelessly to pay off the farm - David reports his workday begins at 4am. Apples are Trinity's main focus, and the farm produces about 15,000 bushels per year. The Haughtons dream of expanding the farm in the future.

Upstate Growers & Packers –Oriskany, NY

Upstate Growers & Packers is a farmer-owned marketing cooperative that was first established in 2002. Made up of farmers from across the state and based near Syracuse, the cooperative helps to ensure a strong farm economy by pooling its members' crops and then distributing them to stores and markets that might not have purchased New York State produce otherwise. All farms in the cooperative are certified according to GAP (Good Agricultural Practices).

Whalen Farms - Shamong, NJ

In 1985, Jeff Whalen took over 20 acres of cranberry bogs which his grandfather, Everett Abrams, had farmed during the early 1950's. Since that day, Jeff has been expanding his farm, which now consists of 700 acres. Whalen Farms is composed of 180 acres of blueberries, 125 acres of cranberry bogs and 395 acres of land that is part of the Conservation Steward Program, run by the USDA's National Resources Conservation Services. Whalen Farms is a conscientiously ran farm, concerned about the environment; employing a strict recycling program, drip irrigation, state of the art Integrated Pest Management system, overseen by Rutgers University, and forced air cooling of cranberries, which conserves energy and produces a much fresher product.

Whitworth Farms – Boynton Beach, FL

Whitworth Farms started in 1949. More 60 years later, farmers John, Tom, Cathy Lee and Wade Whitworth are still going strong, with customers including Whole Foods Market. They are especially known for their squash, peppers, cucumbers and tomatoes.

Williams Farms (Marion, NY)

Williams Farms, LLC is a 3rd generation family owned fruit and vegetable farming business. Located in Marion, NY – Wayne County, Williams Farms, LLC utilizes some of the richest muck soil in the state. The dark, moist, fertile soil helps produce high quality potatoes and onions that customers demand.

Willow's Cranberries – Wareham, MA

Willows Cranberries is located on Wareham, MA. Willow's grow premium quality cranberries and specializes in dry-harvesting, a technique that gently combs the berries from the vines to avoid bruising.

Wilklow Orchards – Highland, NY

The Wilklow family has been coming to GrowNYC's Greenmarkets since 1984 (and farming since 1855!). Greenmarket Co. is excited to distribute their venerable fruit and vegetables whenever we can get our hands on them!